I am thanking the reviewer for his thorough reviews and highly appreciate the comments and suggestions, which significantly contributed to improve the dissertation.

In the recent review an overview of current related methods, including online challenges, was proposed.

I already gave an overview for some approaches similar to the proposed techniques (especially in Chapter 2) but as requested, in the final defense, I will focus on this comparison and give arguments about the predicted success of the different methods.

Finally, I am saying thank you for the positive opinion about my work and the recommendation for the public defense.
